

University of Durham Palatine Centre

Broadstock have recently completed the fit-out of the prestigious new Palatine Centre at Durham University.

As part of a £60 million Durham Project Development in 2012, the new Palatine Centre will centralise key student support services - including Counselling Services, Services for Students with Disabilities, the Careers, Employability and Enterprise Centre, and the Academic and International Offices - on one site for the benefit of the University's student community. The Palatine Centre will also include offices for the University's professional support services and management executive, as well as cafe facilities. Broadstock have supplied and installed a combination of standard and bespoke desking, task seating, together with storage from our own in-house manufactured ranges. In addition, the executive veneer boardroom and office spaces were fitted out using Verco ranges, including DNA tables and Ocean seating. Feature soft seating was sourced from Boss Design and the Cafe area utilises products from the Protocol portfolio.
